Immigration Notes

One of the most important foreign developments of the year in relation to immigration to Canada is being arranged for by officers of the staff of J. Obeil Smith, Dominion commissioner of immigration. The German government has elected to send a company of delegates to inspect conditions in the Canadian west, and if satisfactory, the immigration officers look forward to the granting of important privileges to the propagation of information throughout the German empire that will apprise its subjects of the opportunities of the Dominion. It may not be generally known that up to the present the restrictions on any emigration propaganda have been maintained very rigidly by the German government within her territory. Agents from the west here have been obliged to adopt clandestine methods in all cases in order to spread the glad tidings of the Canadian country among the Teutonic people. Any public advertisement of Canada or any other foreign country has been rigidly declared against by the government officials and the law is strictly enforced. There are close to 30,000 Germans now resident in Canada, and the movement of Teutons during the last few years, though small, aggregating from one thousand to two thousand annually, has been sufficient to attract the notice of the German government, and it has despatched three delegates to look into the actual conditions of the country that is attracting her sons, and whether, particularly the Teuton settlers are advantageously located here. The delegates are now traveling privately through the States up to Canada, and the correspondence for the tour of the trio has been conducted over the signature of Dr. Otto Gagrow, Imperial German agricultural attaché in the United States.

The immigration office has mapped out a favorable itinerary for the German delegates and it is likely they will pass through Winnipeg sometime between July 25 and August 15.

Deputy Minister Smart, before the committee on agriculture and colonization recently is reported to have stated that those members of the original Barr colony who settled on land in various parts of the Territories, have done better than those who located near Lloydminster. Immigrants do much better when they mix with other communities, and the department is discouraging settlement in colonies, although it is impossible to break them up into groups of less than one or two hundred persons.

Experimenting with Submarines

Recent manoeuvres with submarines at Portsmouth are to be supplemented by some more important operations with these craft.

Hitherto attention has been devoted to finding out the best methods to be adopted in repelling a sudden attack on the harbor by destroyers, but the aim of the forthcoming experiments is to discover, first, the most effectual means of putting submarines out of action, and second, the value of an ingenious ruse, by which a submarine may approach a battleship unobserved.

The first experiment may be described as fishing for submarines.

A big steel net, 250 feet in length, has been constructed of special wire, and is to be attached to three powerful steam pinnaces representing cruisers.

By means of booms the net can be lowered to any depth, and is invisible to the submarines.

When one of the latter is caught within the meshes, the outside vessels are to close in, and the submarine would then be entirely at the mercy of her captors.

For the purpose of the other experiment a light canvas structure has been made to fit over the conning tower of the submarine.

It is an exact representation of the tower, and when the submarine dives beneath the surface this structure will be left floating on the surface, the idea being that while the enemy was concentrating all its attention and energies on this supposed submarine, the real vessel would be approaching from an entirely different direction and discharging its deadly missiles unseen.

Raisuli's Methods of Diplomacy

The correspondent of the London Daily Mail at Tangier, under date of June 19, says that a letter had been received on that day from Raisuli, in which the bandit said:

"It is well that the Englishmen and Americans should know the truth regarding my doings and the reasons why I have taken Perdicaris. All that has been said at Tangier about me, as well as the statement that I hate the Christian Europeans and want them driven from Morocco is wrong. I desire to do no wrong to any Christian. Should trouble come it will come from Europe, for if troops are landed we will fight."

Raisuli says the cause of the present trouble is the deposed governor of Tangier, who, with his family governed Tangier for generations, persecuted Raisuli's tribe, killed boys, mutilated children and disregarded all the principles of their religion. Raisuli says that when he went to Tangier he had no intention of taking Perdicaris any more than he had of taking any other European or American, but he is now glad that he took an American, for he says America will be forced to fight the Sultan, overthrow the governor and release the innocent prisoners. Raisuli's letter continues: "The new Bashaw must be just, for if he should prove unjust, I warn the government that the present trouble may be renewed. Mr. Perdicaris is safe and wants for nothing. I hope I have made my position clear to the English and American people."

PARLIAMENT

Spiteful Obstruction

The whole of yesterday's sitting of Parliament was occupied by the obstruction of the Opposition of the bill to provide against the sale of impure seeds, introduced by the Minister of Agriculture, which occupied the whole of the afternoon sitting, and the obstruction of the same Minister's estimates during the evening sitting. Not a single paragraph of the bill or item of the estimates was passed.

The proceedings of yesterday are a sample of the treatment systematically dealt out to the Minister of Agriculture by the Opposition party in Parliament. As has been said already, it is the privilege and right, and at times may be the duty, of an opposition to obstruct; but there are also times when obstruction becomes a weapon against the best interests of the country. In the attitude of the Opposition to the Minister of Agriculture it is amply evident that that party is prepared to sacrifice the interests of agriculture in their desire to belittle and generally injure the Minister of that Department.

Good Work of the Agricultural Department

If there is one department of the Government which more than another, has been of benefit to the country and has been administered with a single eye to the country's interests, it is that of Agriculture; and no part of the Dominion of Canada can bear witness more strongly on that point than the district of Alberta. In the establishment and conduct of creameries, in the sale of oats to South Africa during the war, and more recently in the purchase of good seed for use in the district, the Department of Agriculture has been proven to be of the greatest possible use to the farming community, and to be administered in a practical and business-like way.

What has been done in Northern Alberta has been done more or less in all parts of the Dominion of Canada. Nowhere from end to end of the Dominion but in the work of the experimental farms, the establishment of cold storage transportation, and in general all matters relating to agriculture, that Department is a strong feature of the Government's administration.

Met with Obstruction and Contempt

Instead of the work of the Department being supported by the Opposition, or being criticized with a view to further improvement of a parliamentary business of a parliamentary Opposition, its work has been systematically met with obstruction such as that of yesterday; and the effort is made to belittle the Minister in his work, and as far as possible discredit it. The contemptuous manner in which the work of the Department and the efforts of the Minister to improve the conditions of the greatest industry in the Dominion of Canada have been alluded to by members of the Opposition is an indication of the value which they place upon that industry and upon those engaged in it.

Making a Political Issue

Possibly the evident intention of the Opposition to make a political issue out of the dismissal of Lord Dundonald, adds to their ordinary desire to belittle and discredit the Minister of Agriculture; who was the snag upon which his Lordship was shipwrecked. It is when dealing with this subject that the members of the Opposition rise to their greatest flights of oratory in sneering at the agricultural industry and those who represent it. Col. Hughes, during his speech in the House, spoke of the Hon. Mr. Fisher as the "Minister of Ducks and Chickens" and "scouted the idea of one whose calling was so humble setting up his opinion against that of an Earl and a commander-in-chief.

While it is not well to mix issues, it may not be out of place to point out in connection with the Dundonald incident, and the evident desire on the part of the Opposition to make it a political issue by placing Lord Dundonald in a position of infinite superiority to that of a mere farmer Minister, that the recent war (through his services in which Lord Dundonald became entitled to military distinction) was distinctly a war between farmers and professional soldiers, in which the professional soldiers did not particularly shine. And that it was not until farmers from Canada and Australia were matched against the Boers that the British arms achieved success. There may have been a time when it was out of place for a mere farmer to criticize military operations. But since the war in South Africa that condition has passed; and it is scarcely judicious on the part of the friends of the professional military men who served in that war to make too bold comparisons between the professional military man and the farmer in active service; however disadvantageous the comparison might be to the farmer on parade.

Partisan Hostility the Only Platform

The Budget having been carried by a record majority, and the Grand Trunk Pacific Bill now approaching its third reading in the Senate, the Opposition seem to have dropped consideration or defence of their position on these two features of the Government policy; and have united on the single plank of arousing hostility to the Government because of its dismissal of Lord Dundonald. The Government is being criticized for political partisanship in its administration of the militia. And the first to make the attack is Lord Dundonald, who, while holding office under the Government, used his position for the purpose of furnishing a ground for partisan attack—it is now said, by pre-arrangement with the members of the Opposition.

The Opposition press are publishing columns of editorials "drawing the distinction between the military man and the farmer with a view of arousing in the breast of the members of the militia a feeling of resentment at their commanding officer being dictated to by a mere farmer. On the supposition that Lord Dundonald is a Scotchman, some of these papers undertake to arouse racial feeling in the minds of people of Scottish nationality and descent; and anywhere and everywhere throughout the ultra English-speaking parts of the country the fact that the Premier under whose authority Lord Dundonald has been removed from his position is of French race is being worked for all it is worth.

The Attempted Agitation a Boomerang

There is not much to be said for the party which depends for success upon such policies; and it is safe to say that such tactics will never achieve success in Canada. The strength of the militia of Canada are the farmers of Canada, and the hope of arousing discontent in their minds by drawing invidious comparisons between an English lord and a Canadian farmer, is not likely to be very successful. If Scotchmen could be influenced by racial crises as some other nationalities are, they never would have achieved the position and influence which they have in Canada, and in all other English-speaking countries. It is reasonable to believe that English-speaking Canada will continue to endorse that Premier under whom it has achieved its greatest material prosperity and its highest ideals of national progress, notwithstanding the fact that he is of French race. It would be remarkable indeed if a country which prides itself on being the freest in the world, and on having its doors opened wide to people of every nationality under the sun, should exclude from high position a man of the brightest talents and the most unselfish honor because he was of the race which was the first to form civilized settlement in Canada and to give the country a name and a history.

The Reason for the Crime

The Stockholm Aftonbladet publishes a letter to the Emperor of Russia, purporting to have been written by Eugene Schumann, the assassin of General Bobrikoff, governor general of Finland, the original of which Schumann said would be found upon his body after his death had been committed. The letter follows: "Sir—Through the Senate, which is obedient in creating lawlessness in Finland. Through lies and false representations, Bobrikoff and Plevne (minister of the interior) have induced my majesty to issue ordinances incompatible with Finnish laws. EDMONTON WON

AGAIN LAST NIGHT

Seven Innings Game on Strathcona Grounds Won by Edmonton

Edmonton won from Strathcona last evening in a seven innings game by a score of 8 to 6 on Strathcona grounds.

The teams lined up as follows:—

Edmonton	Strathcona
Catcher.	Dobson
Pitcher.	Pitche
Archibald	Dobson
First Base.	Hay
Second Base.	Kinnear
Third Base.	Greenway
Shortstop.	McLean
Right Field.	Hewitt
Centre Field.	May

The scores by innings were as follows:—

Strathcona—1 0 2 0 1 0 2—6.
Edmonton—1 0 0 1 4 1 1—8.

The credits for the scores are as follows:—

Edmonton.	Strathcona.
Till	1
Rowson	2
Magill	1
Gilmore	1
Deaton	2
Milne	0
Archibald	1
Maloney	0
Chapman	0
Blain	1
Dobson	0
Kinnear	0
Greenway	0
Hewitt	0

Owing to an accident in the game on Wednesday which injured a hand Sticks was unable to pitch for the Strathcona team, his place being taken by Dobson. Dobson was also intended to be played during the summer as second pitcher, but a broken finger put him out of business for some time. He has now recovered however and will probably play out the season as relief for Sticks.

Archibald for Edmonton pitched a steady game and held down the batting.

Gilmore again came to the front in right field and collected everything in his territory.

The score credits show that six of the Edmonton men got over the plate once and some oftener. The scoring for Strathcona on the other hand was done by a few men, many of the team not making a run.

Red Deer People Interviewed Mr. Whyte

From the Red Deer Advocate:

On Friday of last week Superintendent Whyte, of the Western Division of the C.P.R., and his assistant, Mr. Dennis, accompanied by Mr. Niblock and Mr. Jamieson, of the Calgary Division, stopped off in Red Deer on their tour of inspection and received a delegation from the Board of Trade and the town. The subjects discussed were of "great importance, namely, "stock yards" and "railway divisional point."

The Board of Trade have recognized for some time that this town should have better facilities for shipping stock than it has at present, and had some correspondence with the C.P.R. regarding the matter. The result of which is Mr. Whyte's visit. The C.P.R. seem anxious to co-operate in improving the matter, the result of which is secure enough land on the west side of the track for the desired improvement. On these grounds would be built the yards and sidings and work shops for a divisional point.

The C.P.R. needs a divisional point between Calgary and Edmonton, and Red Deer has the best situation for it. The officials of the town and Board of Trade are energetically pushing the matter, and as it is strictly a business proposition, we believe the citizens in general will do all in their power to help the negotiations to a satisfactory conclusion.

Von Bulow's Idea

A Person dispatch says ever since Count Bulow in the Reichstag delivered his remarkable warning to the artists of German comic journals to be careful how they publish anything offensive to Russia, or which could be construed by Russia into a breach of German neutrality, strong forces have been at work in the same direction. More than one journal, which was silent or actively engaged in reviling England in the Boer war, is now pleading for the merciful treatment of Russia at the hands of the press, (quoting Bismarck's saying that a nation must always pay for the windows which its newspapers smash. These journals now recognize, apparently for the first time, that low abuse and disrespectful cartoons cause serious business in the country against which they are directed.

Although pictures and text in the comic journals may still be seen having Russia as their butt, most of the press has come to heel, and a milder tone is now prevailing even among the most ferociously anti-Russian prints. In to-day's cartoon in the "Foreground" Russia, Japan are engaged in deadly conflict—Russia a huge, marmoset-like giant, Japan, small, but full of energy. In the background Count Bulow stands lecturing the boys with a whip in his hands. "You young rascals," says he, "neutrality is to shout 'Tut-tut' when the Russian is on top, and to send telegrams and condolences when the Japs is on top. Everything else is inadmissible partisanship."

Some Advantages in Canada

At the Primitive Methodist Conference at Birmingham, a hearty welcome was extended to the Rev. H. Taylor, representative of the Methodist Church in Canada. Referring to the discussion of the proposed union of Methodist churches in the Old Land, Mr. Taylor hoped that every probability of an even greater union taking place in the course of a few years. Like the Old Land, they had great forces to contend against in Canada, including the gigantic liquor traffic. There were other things they had not. They had no conscience violating churches in the Education Act, and a Prime Minister and political partizan who sought to enervate on the conscience of the people in regard to such matters, or who sought in any way whatever to connive with the liquor traffic, would suffer.

A meeting of Edmonton lodge No. 53, A. F. & A. M. will be held in the Masonic hall on Sunday, June 26, at 6 o'clock p.m. sharp for the purpose of attending divine service. All members of the craft are invited to attend.

Ottawa, Ont., June 25.—The Dundonald affair reached a vote at 1.30 this morning. Borden's motion of censure on the government was defeated by 84 to 42. The Minister of Agriculture did not vote as the motion of censure was directed specially against him. The Premier's speech was a very clear statement of the case from a constitutional point of view and his reply to the attacks made upon himself was among the best efforts of his life.

The harvest of victims who lost their lives in the General Slocum disaster in East River last Wednesday has reached enormous proportions. Early on Tuesday the number of bodies recovered had reached a total of 776, and it was expected that the day would add to the number. It was hoped that identification would materially reduce the large list of missing before the end of the day. As has been the case with the bodies recovered, the list of missing has remained almost unchanged. On Tuesday the total of bodies recovered exceeded 750. The list of missing continues well in excess of 200.

Army Reform

London despatches say surprise was created this week by the announcement that the Escherich scheme for the reform of the War Office is practically at a standstill.

The reason given for the stopping of the work of reorganization is that the Treasury has a deficit of four and a half millions to meet, and no new expenditure can be sanctioned this year.

The Department of the Chief of the General Staff—which is an innovation—is the particular section which is most affected by this development. The Treasury has, in effect, issued an ultimatum by laying down the maximum expenditure that is to be prepared to sanction.

This amount will supply one officer where four are needed.

In the opinion of experts this means that no General Staff for studying war duties can be created. One of the cardinal reforms of the Committee of Three is therefore in jeopardy.

Lieutenant-General Sir Neville Lytton, the chief of the General Staff, is faced with the possibility of being the superintendent of a non-existent staff. The Treasury is not only unwilling to grant money for efficient officers in his department, but is totally averse to sanctioning any new appointments.

Information about the Empire, preparations for defence, the study of schemes of attack, information of foreign countries, mapping, education of the staff, the selection of war books, home defence, mobilization, and the training of troops—these are the subjects which were to fall within the scope of General Lytton's department.

It was emphatically stated by the War Commission that if more was not spent on these services the nation would be faced with disaster in the next war.

The Escherich Committee added their testimony that the absence of a trained General Staff gravely prejudiced the conduct of operations in South Africa, concluding with the following statement:—

"We have stated our conviction that the formation of a highly trained General Staff is essential. Some increase of expense will be entailed by the formation of a properly trained General Staff on the lines we have laid down."

The influence of such a General Staff as we contemplate will make itself felt throughout the whole structure of the army, and the necessary expense will be amply justified."

The Adjutant-General's Department is included in the economies, and in the quartermaster-general's branch the provision to superintend transport, remounts, food, clothing, and equipment to maintain a force in war is also threatened.

The Ordnance branch, which supplies guns, rifles, ammunition, and engineer material to an army in the field is considered likely to suffer from the Treasury's retrenching.

Smaller Battleships

According to a London dispatch the day of the smaller battleship is coming. The instant destruction of the Petropavlovsk and the Hatsuse, by floating mines, has furnished conclusive proof that naval warfare in the future will be attended by dangers which no armor can guard against. There is, therefore, no object in sinking more money in a single battleship than is absolutely necessary in order to obtain the necessary speed and strength sufficient to carry big guns of long range.

Mr. Philip Watts, the Director of Naval Construction, is now busy with his plans for the present year, and the next ships laid down will be of considerably smaller tonnage than those designed by Sir William White.

Commenting on this matter, the Express says: "It is Britain's duty to take the lead in naval construction. The strength of our navy lies not only in its numerical power, but also in its conformity. Our ships must conform as closely as possible to the conditions necessary to obtain the highest degree of security possible in modern naval warfare. The Far Eastern conflict has added much new information to our previous knowledge, based largely on theory, as to what might happen in this age of high explosives. We have now to turn these fresh facts to our advantage."

"Mr. Watts has always been in favor of the smaller battleship, and the wisdom of his belief has been fully confirmed. Not only will less money be locked up in a single structure, but there will be greater speed, which, in war time is almost as important as fighting power.

"The fighting ships of the future appear to be a compromise between the great, gun-weighted, metal-laden battleship, and the strong, efficient, and swift armored cruiser. Speed is the chief factor. The slow, unwieldy men-o-war is as obsolete as Nelson's three-decker. Even the capabilities of so modern a floating fortress as the King Edward VII, will be greatly limited in the event of war by the experience gained off Port Arthur."

"Before any new battleships are laid down, the admiralty will have to consider seriously what are to be the future tactics of the British navy, and the question of floating mines will have to be settled by international agreement. If it be permissible to sow the high seas with floating mines, more especially in the probable track of an approaching squadron, battleships will have to be confined to coast defense, and the battles of the future fought by smaller craft. Before the Far Eastern war is at an end, we may expect to have heated discussions on this question."

Robbery by Indians

From the Pincher Creek Echo:

On Friday afternoon, during the absence of Mr. Garesault from his ranch, two Indians came to his house, entered it and demanded money from Mrs. Garesault, who was alone with the small children. They were refused and then fired a shot from a revolver, the bullet passing through a window, the shot was not aimed at her, but was intended to frighten. The Indians compelled Mrs. Garesault to show them where the money was and broke open the bureau. While they were doing this Mrs. Garesault ran over to the schoolhouse, but on returning, the Indians had disappeared. Some fifty or sixty dollars had been taken out of the bureau. The police were at once notified of the robbery by Mr. Garesault, who rode back to town when he was told of the affair. Inspector Davidson and his men have been riding over the district, but so far have no clue to the men, as Mrs. Garesault could only describe their clothes.

Calgary Herald: "The firemen had a run last night at 9:05 when a message was sent to the fire hall that smoke was seen coming from the Bank of Nova Scotia on First street. The brigade turned out promptly and on the door of the bank being forced open a great hanging on a peg was found to be in flames. The blaze was quickly subdued and what might have been a costly conflagration prevented. The heat from an electric light globe which was hanging on the same hook as the coat, is supposed to have caused the fire."

Police Horses for the North

Vancouver World: Sergeant S. A. K. White, of the McLeod station of N. W. M. P., has returned from a trip to White Horse, where he took 38 horses for the use of the Mounted Police there. He is stopping at the Commercial and will leave to-night for McLeod. His arrival there will conclude a record making trip. "It was a very nice, enjoyable trip all the way, with no accident or delay to mar its pleasure," he stated to The World reporter. "I left Vancouver on the steamer Amur, June 4th, accompanied by two constables and a special, and arrived at White Horse June 19th at 1 a.m. The horses were all in good condition and had met with no mishaps owing to the kindness and courtesy of the C.P. steamship and the White Pass railway officials, who showed me every consideration and rendered every service possible. I left Skagway for Vancouver on the 13th and arrived on the Princess May here yesterday."

When asked about the state of affairs in White Horse, Sergeant White said "I did not have much opportunity to notice the business or social situation there, but there were a large number of people in the town. While there I learned that the Yukon river steamer White Horse, had run up on a sandbar, thus delaying the passengers aboard from making connections with the Princess May."

Denies the Japanese Reports

Indianapolis, Ind., June 25th.—The News has just received a special cablegram from Hector Fuller, its correspondent at Chefoo, giving the following account of his release from Port Arthur, and the situation inside the besieged fortress:

"Chefoo, June 25th.—After spending five days in a Russian prison, I was released and put on board a Chinese junk and sent to this place. The stories of starvation in Port Arthur spread by the Japanese are untrue, as stores and supplies are constantly arriving at the besieged city from Chinese ports. The Japanese blockade is ineffective."

"The garrison consists of between fifty and sixty thousand troops; the health of both soldiers and civilians is good."

"The damaged battleships have all been repaired and the harbor entrance is cleared of obstructions. Immense new forts have been constructed and in my opinion the place is in no immediate danger of falling into the hands of the Japanese."

"The Japanese attack by land and sea, made on the 8th inst., was easily repulsed. I was the first correspondent to enter Port Arthur since the blockade began."

Canada Raises Silk

The manufacture of silk from the cocoon stage to the finished product is in its initial state in Canada. Andre Villani of Labelle County, Quebec, has gone to St. Louis, where he will place an exhibition a somewhat unique exhibit. It is silk made by Canadian silk-worms.

Three years ago Mr. Villani at a meeting of the Colonization Society of the Province of Quebec presented the plans for establishing a silk industry in Canada. Being assured that his scheme was impossible, he said he would undertake to prove to the contrary and that it could be made a great commercial success. His exhibit is the guarantee of his promise. He sent samples of his first crop of silk to the silk expert of the Italian Government, who informed him that his silk was firmer, more durable, and more consistent than Chinese or Japanese silk. Last year Mr. Villani sowed 50,000 plants. Last month he planted a "carload" of mulberry trees, and sowed three acres of land with mulberry seed that will yield 1,000,000 plants. This he expects will enable him to establish a colony of 2,000 persons wholly devoted to the silk industry.

New Militia Gun Machines

The officers of Toronto garrison turned out in force to witness the tests of the new sub-target gun machine, which were on exhibition in the armories. So much interest has been created by recent discussion on the subject of marksmanship among the militia corps that scores of men belonging to the different regiments as well as many members of the city gun clubs were present and throughout the night there were long lines of men behind each waiting for an opportunity of testing the machines. Several expert shots were among those who tried firing at a target at fifty yards, and they all pronounced the machines invaluable for instruction in target practice. Different officers who are specially devoted to the improvement in rifle shooting among the different corps gave it as their opinion that the new machines would do much to stimulate interest and that the use of the machines in company rooms would gain many desirable recruits for the

The Roblin Game Spoiled

Neepawa Press: Premier Laurier announced in the House of Commons last Friday that the election act is to be amended making provision for the preparation of voters lists in those parts of Canada where they are not now prepared under judicial or municipal authority. This applies specially to Manitoba and the purpose is, without any doubt, to circumvent the transparent scheme of the Roblin government to load the provincial lists in favor of the Tory party. Of course, the Roblinites will make an awful roar. The Winnipeg Telegram indignantly protests that "Sifton proposes to deprive the Manitoba Conservatives of the advantages which their industry and vigilance has won." Just think of it. The Liberals decline to use a loaded list gratuitously prepared at the expense of the province for the special benefit of the C.P.R. monopoly and the high protectionists. Too bad; isn't it?

Government Orders Dipping Tanks

-The Rev. G. H. Webb, formerly of Strathcona, on Sunday was formally inducted by Archbishop Webb, acting for the Bishop of Calgary into the charge of St. John's, Fincher Creek. The shorter rite was used. Mr. Webb made an eloquent address on the relations of clergy and laity.

-At the Presbyterian Alliance conference at Liverpool on June 28, three hundred and fifty delegates will represent 90 churches, 40 synods, 1,000 Presbyteries, 2,700 ministers, 130,000 elders and 5,000,000 members. Among the prominent speakers is Rev. Principal Caven, Toronto, the president.

-Mr. Brown, representing Joseph Tetley & Co., the big tea firm of London, England, has presented the Edmonton cricket club with a valuable cricket bat to be given to the member making the best batting average during the present season. -Saskatchewan Times: Mr. Ingles, of the office of Willis Chipman, Toronto, arrived in town a few days ago to take the levels of the streets.

-Mr. Chipman has secured the contract for getting the specifications for waterworks and sewerage systems for Prince Albert. When completed the specifications and plans will be filed at the Town Engineer's office.

-Visitors to the hay market complain bitterly of the want of drinking water for man and beast. In these warm days, after a long journey along dusty roads, both bipeds and quadrupeds are apt to feel thirsty.

-When the outdoor bound journey is ended a cool draught of water would prove a godsend; but the hay market has none to offer these thirsty ones.

-Hon. Mr. Bulyea, of the Northwest government, has written the railway commission in regard to the prevention of fires from railway engines. The commission will issue notices to railways in the Northwest, showing that they are liable to damages for all fires caused by engines, whether through negligence or otherwise, and asking them to use all precautions, by fire guards and otherwise, to prevent fires.

-Free Press: The general appearance of the west now presents an inspiring scene. The crop outlook was never brighter in any previous year and the grain blades are literally springing from the ground, so rapid is the growth. The result is feeling of commercial buoyancy and the farmers particularly are jubilant.

-Of course, it is yet early and perhaps wise to begin crop estimate predictions; but there is certainly every reason to believe that 1904 will be the "best yet" in the line of a bumper yield.

-The career of a would-be Jack Hunter was terminated in short order last night by plucky young woman and Constable Fishbury. The young lady was assaulted on Jasper avenue by a young man and instead of losing her head and the stranger, found the constable and had him placed under arrest. He appeared in police court this morning and was fined $20 and costs, with the option of two months in the barracks at the Fort. He chose the latter and will go down today. He gave his name as A. Nicolls.

AMUSEMENTS

MY FRIEND FROM INDIA.

"My Friend from India" drew a large crowd to Robertson Hall last evening, who for about three hours were kept in roars of laughter at the social asprations and unusual adventures of the Underhill family.

The play represents the attempts of a wealthy family from Kansas City to get into New York society. Mr. Underhill has made money out of hog and wants to have his children mingle with the upper class. For this purpose he has sent money and devised schemes in vain when Charles his son who appears to be making good headway in the manner of the east walking one morning to find that he has brought some strange gentleman home with him. Not wanting to have his father suspect that he has been out for the evening, Charles introduces the gentleman as an Indian Fundit, deeply learned in the mysteries of the East.

The old gentleman thinks he sees a way to clamor into society with the assistance of the fundit, and gets up a reception to exhibit the act. But the children are afraid the antics of their father at the reception will put him in their chances of society and the old gentleman is persuaded that he has been drunk and the story ends by the announcement of Underhill that he will return to good old Kansas City. There is the inevitable love story—two of them—and a jilting affair to help matters along, and all these troubles are smoothed out in the old gentleman's final blessing.

Space forbids a lengthy criticism of the play, which, judging from the preparation of the audience is not needed.

The play will be repeated in Robertson Hall to-night when another large crowd will doubtless be present.

THE BEGGAR PRINCE.

Concerning the Beggar Prince Opera Co., who open a weeks engagement in the Park on Monday evening, the Regina Standard says:

"Regina theatre goes had a real treat in store for them at the hall last night when P. A. Wade's company under the management of C. P. Walker which is now touring the west, presented 'The Beggar Prince.' It was a good two hours of mirth and music. The singing was excellent especially that of Mr. Walters and Miss Irene Palmer, in duet. The comedy was simply fine. It was straight, clean fun from start to finish, and was made doubly taking by the natural way in which the players rendered it. The 'Beggars' in the last act was excellent. The scene was a beautiful one, and the plates, cups and butter dishes, etc., for the 'Beggars' brought down the house."

P. A. Wade as 'The Beggar Prince' is an artist in himself in everything from the make-up of his costume to the presentation of his part, and in this he had an able assistant in Mr. G. Peck, who took the role of 'Lord High Chamberlain' to the 'Beggars' Prince. When these two got together together there was certainly 'something doing,' and they contributed in no small way to the proper enjoyment of the evening.

Another pair who are deserving of special mention are P. Walters, as 'The Beggar Prince's' friend, and the Mascotte. Their singing, together in the first and last acts was the occasion for a large encore.

Taken as a whole, this company is about the best that ever came this way. They received a continued encore especially in the singing and when a company gets an encore in Regina they may know that it is genuine, for the people of this city will certainly let them know if they are not up to the standard."
